Re: OIG Advisory Opinion No. 26-21 (Favorable)

Dear [redacted]:

The Office of Inspector General ("OIG") is writing in response to your request for an advisory opinion on behalf of [redacted] ("Requestor"), regarding a proposal by a laboratory that performs a clinical laboratory test for [redacted] to waive any applicable cost sharing for commercially insured patients who receive its [redacted] test (the "Proposed Arrangement"). Specifically, you have inquired whether the Proposed Arrangement, if undertaken, would constitute grounds for the imposition of sanctions under: the civil monetary penalty provision at section 1128A(a)(7) of the Social Security Act (the "Act"), as that section relates to the commission of acts described in section 1128B(b) of the Act (the "Federal anti-kickback statute"); the civil monetary penalty provision prohibiting inducements to beneficiaries, section 1128A(a)(5) of the Act (the "Beneficiary Inducements CMP"); or the exclusion authority at section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, as that section relates to the commission of acts described in the Federal anti-kickback statute and the Beneficiary Inducements CMP.

Requestor has certified that all of the information provided in the request, including all supplemental submissions, is true and correct and constitutes a complete description of the relevant facts and agreements among the parties in connection with the Proposed Arrangement, and we have relied solely on the facts and information Requestor provided. We have not undertaken an independent investigation of the certified facts and information presented to us by Requestor. This advisory opinion is limited to the relevant facts presented to us by Requestor in connection with the Proposed Arrangement. If material facts have not been disclosed, have been misrepresented, or change, then this advisory opinion is without force and effect.

Based on the relevant facts certified in your request for an advisory opinion and supplemental submissions, we conclude that the Proposed Arrangement, if undertaken, would not generate prohibited remuneration under the Federal anti-kickback statute or Beneficiary Inducements CMP. Accordingly, OIG would not impose administrative sanctions on Requestor in connection with the Proposed Arrangement under section 1128A(a)(7) of the Act, as that section relates to the commission of acts described in the Federal anti-kickback statute; the Beneficiary Inducements CMP; or the exclusion authority at section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, as that section relates to the commission of acts described in the Federal anti-kickback statute and the Beneficiary Inducements CMP.

This advisory opinion may not be relied on by any person[1] other than Requestor, has no applicability to any arrangements other than the Proposed Arrangement, and is further qualified as set out in Part IV below and in 42 C.F.R. Part 1008.

I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Requestor develops and performs the [redacted] test (the "Test"), a clinical laboratory test for [redacted] approved by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration ("FDA") in 2024. Requestor certified that the Test is an FDA-approved blood-based biomarker test for [redacted] available to adults aged 45 and older who are at average risk for the disease. The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force ("USPSTF") has designated [redacted] as a grade "A" recommendation for patients aged 50-75, a grade "B" recommendation for patients aged 45-49, and a grade "C" recommendation for patients aged 76-85.[2] The USPSTF recommendation does not currently identify blood-based testing as a recommended [redacted] screening strategy. The USPSTF has not updated its recommendation for [redacted] since 2021, and Requestor understands that USPSTF may not update this recommendation for several years. Requestor certified it will seek inclusion of blood-based [redacted] in the next update to the USPSTF recommendation for [redacted].

Commercial health insurers are required to cover preventive services with an A or B rating from the USPSTF without cost sharing.[3] Because blood-based testing is not currently identified as a recommended [redacted] screening strategy, Requestor asserts that some commercial health insurers impose cost-sharing requirements on the Test but not on competing [redacted] screening

[1] We use "person" herein to include persons, as referenced in the Federal anti-kickback statute and Beneficiary Inducements CMP, as well as individuals and entities, as referenced in the exclusion authority at section 1128(b)(7) of the Act.

[2] USPSTF, Final Recommendation Statement, [redacted]. A grade "A" designation means that the "USPSTF recommends the service [and] there is high certainty that the net benefit is substantial." A grade "B" designation means that the "USPSTF recommends the service [and] there is high certainty that the net benefit is moderate or there is moderate certainty that the net benefit is moderate to substantial." A grade "C" designation means the "USPSTF recommends selectively offering or providing this service to individual patients based on professional judgment and patient preferences [and] [t]here is at least moderate certainty that the net benefit is small." tests identified in the USPSTF recommendation.[4] Requestor certified that the Test is covered by Medicare under a Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services ("CMS") National Coverage Determination ("NCD") for [redacted].[5] The Test is covered by Medicare under CMS NCD [redacted], which provides coverage for [redacted].

Under the Proposed Arrangement, Requestor certified it would waive any applicable cost-sharing amounts for commercially insured individuals who receive the Test. The cost-sharing waiver would apply uniformly to all commercially insured individuals who receive the Test regardless of which provider orders the Test and would not be tied to any other health care item or service. Requestor certified it would not bill Federal health care programs if a commercially insured individual had Federal health care program coverage as their secondary insurance. Requestor further certified it would comply with all applicable Federal and State billing requirements and would not shift any costs associated with the Proposed Arrangement onto any Federal health care program. The Proposed Arrangement would continue only until the USPSTF finalizes the next update to its [redacted] recommendations, regardless of whether or how blood-based [redacted] screening is addressed in the updated recommendation. Additionally, Requestor certified it would not offer or pay any remuneration to any ordering provider in connection with the Proposed Arrangement.

II. LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. Law

1. Federal Anti-Kickback Statute

The Federal anti-kickback statute makes it a criminal offense to knowingly and willfully offer, pay, solicit, or receive any remuneration to induce, or in return for, the referral of an individual to a person for the furnishing of, or arranging for the furnishing of, any item or service reimbursable under a Federal health care program.[6] The statute's prohibition also extends to remuneration to induce, or in return for, the purchasing, leasing, or ordering of, or arranging for or recommending the purchasing, leasing, or ordering of, any good, facility, service, or item reimbursable by a Federal health care program.[7] For purposes of the Federal anti-kickback statute, "remuneration" includes the transfer of anything of value, directly or indirectly, overtly or covertly, in cash or in kind.

The statute has been interpreted to cover any arrangement where one purpose of the remuneration is to induce referrals for items or services reimbursable by a Federal health care program.[8] Violation of the statute constitutes a felony punishable by a maximum fine of $100,000, imprisonment up to 10 years, or both. Conviction also will lead to exclusion from Federal health care programs, including Medicare and Medicaid. When a person commits an act described in section 1128B(b) of the Act, OIG may initiate administrative proceedings to impose civil monetary penalties on such person under section 1128A(a)(7) of the Act. OIG also may initiate administrative proceedings to exclude such person from Federal health care programs under section 1128(b)(7) of the Act.

2. Beneficiary Inducements CMP

The Beneficiary Inducements CMP provides for the imposition of civil monetary penalties against any person who offers or transfers remuneration to a Medicare or State health care program beneficiary that the person knows or should know is likely to influence the beneficiary's selection of a particular provider, practitioner, or supplier for the order or receipt of any item or service for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, by Medicare or a State health care program. OIG also may initiate administrative proceedings to exclude such person from Federal health care programs.

B. Analysis

Requestor proposes to waive any applicable cost sharing for all commercially insured patients who receive the Test. The Federal anti-kickback statute would not be implicated because there would be no remuneration offered or given to induce any patient to purchase an item or service reimbursable by a Federal health care program; the Beneficiary Inducements CMP would not be implicated because there would be no offer or transfer of remuneration to any Medicare or State health care program beneficiary that could influence such individual to order or receive items or services that would be reimbursable by Medicare or a State health care program from Requestor. Additionally, Requestor would not offer or pay any remuneration to any ordering prescriber in connection with the Proposed Arrangement.[9] While we recognize that some of the commercially insured individuals could have Federal health care program coverage as their secondary insurance, Requestor would not bill Federal health care programs in that scenario.

Importantly, the Proposed Arrangement is distinguishable from other arrangements that "carve out" Federal health care program business. OIG has longstanding and continuing concerns about arrangements under which parties carve out referrals of Federal health care program beneficiaries

[8] E.g., United States v. Nagelvoort, 856 F.3d 1117 (7th Cir. 2017); United States v. McClatchey, 217 F.3d 823 (10th Cir. 2000); United States v. Davis, 132 F.3d 1092 (5th Cir. 1998); United States v. Kats, 871 F.2d 105 (9th Cir. 1989); United States v. Greber, 760 F.2d 68 (3d Cir. 1985).

[9] We have previously opined that offering a free test could confer value to a prescriber by enabling them to offer a service at no cost to them or their patients, which may create an opportunity for providers to bill for other services. Under the facts certified by Requestor, the remuneration would be offered only to commercially insured patients, and any additional services also would be billed to commercial insurers. Therefore, the opportunity for a prescriber to earn a fee though the Proposed Arrangement does not implicate the Federal anti-kickback statute.

or Federal health care program business from otherwise questionable financial arrangements.[10] Such arrangements implicate, and may violate, the Federal anti-kickback statute by disguising remuneration for Federal health care program business through the payment of amounts purportedly related to non-Federal health care program business. OIG would have significant concerns if an entity were to routinely offer a laboratory test to patients—with or without regard to payor—in venues such as health fairs, senior centers, assisted living facilities, shopping malls, farmers markets, coffee shops, parking lots adjacent to retail establishments, home shows, or wellness events sponsored by community organizations. Offering laboratory testing in these settings may reflect an intent to generate referrals from a high volume of individuals—including Federal health care program beneficiaries—in a manner that could pose a risk of inappropriate utilization.

III. CONCLUSION

Based on the relevant facts certified in your request for an advisory opinion and supplemental submissions, we conclude that the Proposed Arrangement, if undertaken, would not generate prohibited remuneration under the Federal anti-kickback statute or Beneficiary Inducements CMP. Accordingly, OIG would not impose administrative sanctions on Requestor in connection with the Proposed Arrangement under section 1128A(a)(7) of the Act, as that section relates to the commission of acts described in the Federal anti-kickback statute; the Beneficiary Inducements CMP; or the exclusion authority at section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, as that section relates to the commission of acts described in the Federal anti-kickback statute and the Beneficiary Inducements CMP.

IV. LIMITATIONS

The limitations applicable to this advisory opinion include the following:

- This advisory opinion is limited in scope to the Proposed Arrangement. This advisory opinion has no applicability to any other arrangements, including, without limitation, any that may have been disclosed or referenced in your request for an advisory opinion or supplemental submissions.

- This advisory opinion is issued only to Requestor. This advisory opinion has no application to, and cannot be relied upon by, any other person.

- This advisory opinion may not be introduced into evidence by a person other than Requestor to prove that the person did not violate the provisions of sections 1128, 1128A, or 1128B of the Act or any other law.

- This advisory opinion applies only to the statutory provisions specifically addressed in the analysis above. We express no opinion herein with respect to the application of any other Federal, State, or local statute, rule, regulation, ordinance, or other law that may be applicable to the Proposed Arrangement, including, without limitation, the physician self-referral law, section 1877 of the Act (or that provision's application to the Medicaid program at section 1903(s) of the Act).

- This advisory opinion will not bind or obligate any agency other than the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

- We express no opinion herein regarding the liability of any person under the False Claims Act or other legal authorities for any improper billing, claims submission, cost reporting, or related conduct.

This advisory opinion is also subject to any additional limitations set forth at 42 C.F.R. Part 1008.

OIG will not proceed against Requestor with respect to any action that is part of the Proposed Arrangement taken in good-faith reliance upon this advisory opinion, as long as all of the material facts have been fully, completely, and accurately presented, and the Proposed Arrangement in practice comports with the information provided. OIG reserves the right to reconsider the questions and issues raised in this advisory opinion and, where the public interest requires, to rescind, modify, or terminate this opinion. In the event that this advisory opinion is modified or terminated, OIG will not proceed against Requestor with respect to any action that is part of the Proposed Arrangement taken in good-faith reliance upon this advisory opinion, where all of the relevant facts were fully, completely, and accurately presented and where such action was promptly discontinued upon notification of the modification or termination of this advisory opinion. An advisory opinion may be rescinded only if the relevant and material facts have not been fully, completely, and accurately disclosed to OIG.

Sincerely,

/Kenneth D. Kraft/
